

Home, and not alone

A Community Support Services Awareness Initiative

Over the last year, Community Support Service agencies have been working tirelessly to support clients to stay safe at home. This has been an phenomenal effort, and your work has not gone unnoticed by your clients and their families.

It's time to let more people know about the positive impact of Community Support Services. Next week, CCSN is launching the Home, and not alone digital media campaign, a coordinated communication initiative that harnesses our collective social media networks to tell our clients' stories.

We need your help! To amplify the website and social media posts planned, we need all of our members to share, like, and re-post our 10 week campaign. You can interact with the daily posts on the CCSN Facebook page or sign up below to receive the content directly to your inbox - that way your agency can create their own posts. Let's show Eastern Ontario the impact of your work!

We encourage you and your social media lead to sign up to receive the social content in advance.

Together, we can get people talking and bring attention to the essential and impactful work that Community Support Services do every day.
